Puukoli Holiday Season is Joyous

(Contributed.)

Christmas festivities, which started at Puukoli theater with the Community Christmas tree on Monday night, December 20, came to a fitting close last Sunday with a Christmas tree and entertainment at the Japanese school under the auspices of the Japanese Sunday School. A fine program included hymns, some sung in English and some sung in the Japanese language, dialogues and tableaux showing scenes from the New Testament, notably the "Good Samaritan," and "The Broad and the Narrow Way." Following an amusing piece by three young girls, showing the changes that have taken place in the way of living in a few years. This item showed the way the homes are illumined, one girl having an ancient paper lantern with a candle inside, a second carrying an ordinary kerosene lantern, while a third had an electric light globe.

After the program had been carried out the Rev. Seiji Zuki of the Lahaina Japanese church gave the closing address, and Santa Claus appeared. It being a Sunday school affair the prizes for attendance were given first and consisted of books. Little Shizuko Shimohara, a pupil in the 2nd grade in the Puukoli public school, won first prize, having attended Sunday school 47 Sundays in 1920. After the books were distributed there were toys and candies given to all children present, and there were others besides Japanese children there.

So Puukoli folk feel they are indeed a favored people, so far as their Christmas celebrations were concerned, as every thing has been carried out as planned more than two weeks ahead and between the first celebration and the last one, there had been a fine rain that has done a lot of good. Mrs. R. Morimoto, who helped so well at the community tree, is teacher at the Japanese school and on her shoulder fell the burden of the Sunday school celebration, but she feels repaid by the success that has attended our efforts here.

Douglas MacLean

If all convicts could effect their escape from prison with the dexterity shown by Douglas MacLean in his first Paramount starring vehicle, "The Jailbird," there would soon be no one left in the penitentiaries but the wardens and guards.

Prison visitors, a collar and shirt lying in easy access on an office desk, and a suit of civilian clothes in the warden's closet, are the accessories that aided Doug's escape. While the guard is showing a crowd of visitors through the prison, Doug, left alone in the warden's office, where he is a trusty, snatches the collar and shirt, adjourns to the closet, dons his "civics" and remains there until the return of the visitors. As they pass the closet door he steps into their midst and exits with them through the prison gates. How he gets back into jail again is another story.

Thomas Meighan

"Why Change Your Wife?" is a striking drama of married life lavishly presented. Gloria Swanson and Thomas Meighan are the featured play ers.

The plot centers around Robert and Beth Gordon, married for 10 years, but now beginning to drift apart. Beth was a charming girl. She has become a too wifely wife and bores her husband with her excessive solicitude for his comforts. He finds diversion in the company of vivacious, pleasure loving Sally Clark. Liberal-minded Beth imagines them in love. A divorce follows, and Robert marries Sally. Too late Beth discovers why she lost her husband and, blossoming like a rose, develops into society's gay est figure. Sally, on the other hand, is transformed by marriage into a worse household drudge than Beth ever was. Robert's eyes are opened when he again sees Beth, and through a dramatic series of events they are brought happily together.

Peggy Hyland

A sweet, thrilling tale of mischief and menace, love and a lass is told in "Faith," starring Peggy Hyland.

This dramatic story, showing how the wit and courage of a sweet Scotch lassie overcomes a deep-laid plot to rob her of wealth, and destroy the man she loves, is lightened by a vein of pleasing comedy which brings a smile to the heart as well as to the lips. Miss Hyland is equally effective in both light and serious scenes, and "Faith" is a picture that is well worth while.

From a grubby kitchen drudge in the home of a rich but grasping old uncle to the mistress of a fortune, Miss Hyland carries her audience through many stirring scenes with a vim and dash that thrill and satisfy. The story is one that should appeal to everyone.

Earle Williams

Some of the most interesting processes of a great murder trial are revealed with interesting detail in "The Black Gate," with Earle Williams playing the stellar role.

Mr. Williams plays the role of Shaler Spencer, a formerly brilliant lawyer whose existence in the picture is that of a man who has lost hope and becomes an idle drifter on life's current. Shaler undertakes the remarkable venture of selling his life for a posthumous fortune to be paid to his brother.

The picture closes with one of the most surprising climaxes imaginable.

Alice Brady

"Sinners" is not a melodrama as many will recall, who saw it on the speaking stage, but a true characterization of life in the small town where everything and everybody moves by rule and route, and gossiping tongues swing from the center.

America's screen favorite and Rea-lart star, Alice Brady, plays the part of Mary Horton, the girl who left home. Miss Brady is supported by a cast of screen notables.—Adv.
